

FARMING OUTLOOK BRIGHT, SAYS HULL

State and National Law Makers to Provide Relief, He Points Out.

That relief for the farmer is coming quickly and effectively through congressional legislation was the statement of George H. Hull, Johnsonville, chairman of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau at a meeting of Plymouth town ship on Tuesday last night.

The state chairman held that the outlook of agriculture interests is not hopeless in the eyes of the state and national lawmakers, both state and national, are heading the demands of the farm bureau and other farm organizations to curb threatening ruin among farmers.

There is coming a close relationship between the state and the national and cultural departments," said Chairman Hull. "Congress knows of the demands of the farmer and it is a case of give and take. The farmers are not asking for a handout. They have got their ears to the ground. They are listening to the voice of the farm bureau and other farm organizations. They are going to get more under the new administration."

There were more than 100 people attending the meeting at which time the farm bureau and the state and national departments were discussed. Many subscriptions were taken for the efforts of the farm bureau and other farm organizations. L. H. Campbell, all of Wisconsin, active workers for the new organization.

Have Selling Agents

Recommendations were made that each farm community be sold through a selling agency or organization. This system would be the pooling of all farm products in a county or series of townships to be placed on the market by a central selling organization. This would enable the producers to control the marketing and regulate the supply on the market. In this way, the farmer would be able to control the supply of the merchandise to meet the demands. Uniform prices in marketing were demanded.

The speaker can ship one day at a profit and the next day at a decided loss was branded as an injustice. Deep waters were urged to provide cheap transportation from the district here to the ocean. Wheat would be lower, they said.

Market Problems

The farmers voiced an opinion that they would like to see the costs of transportation and marketing cut so the consumer would realize lower prices and at the same time the producer on the farm would receive a fairer profit.

J. F. Graber, alfalfa expert of the university experiment station gave an interesting address on alfalfa. Modern farming, he held, requires that farmers produce more and not expect more on what they produce. "Alfalfa," Graber said, that the crop cannot be cut in price. It is a weed because of the lack of competition and there are no radical fluctuations in the price.

Soil Good Here

"Alfalfa is a means of preventing failure in Wisconsin," declared the university man. "The soil here only lacks time to make an ideal crop of this feed. The only way is to get your land right before planting and plant the right type of seed. You can have a sure crop which will enrich your soil and enriches your crops but provides a nitrogen source to your land."

Means of preventing failures were enumerated by Mr. Graber. The use of soil, the timing on plowed ground, the treatment of the seeds with insecticides, the use of early ripening grain and mixing the seed with one quarter timothy were urged.

The Grimm variety of alfalfa which is grown in Wisconsin was declared to be the type most adapted to southern Wisconsin and ensures a long time crop.

Rev. Smith Talks

Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith gave a lively talk to the farmers and was cheered. He is pastor of the Church of Christ in Footville.

L. H. Campbell led in the speeches for the state farm products stock.

At the opening of the program, musical selections were given by Miss Lucille Lorkenhagen and three children. A supper was served near midnight. The evening was a success and the program ended with a layer of rich frosting of two inches in cream and other pastries certainly indicated that Plymouth farmers are no longer trying much on the food question this winter.

C. G. Onsgaard, township chairman, was in charge of the meeting.

FOUR ECLIPSES ARE FORECASTED FOR '21

In 1921 there will be four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon according to astronomers.

An annual eclipse of the sun on April 18 will be visible only to Europe, Greenland, Newfoundland and the northern portions of Asia and Africa.

A total eclipse of the moon April 22 will be visible in North and South America, the West Indies and New Zealand, and in the eastern portion of Australia.

A total eclipse of the sun October 1, will be invisible, visible as a partial eclipse to the southern half of South America, the path of totality extending across the oceans south of South America.

A partial eclipse of the moon, Oct. 16 will be visible to Europe and Africa, the beginning visible generally in Asia, the Philippines Islands, the western part of Australia and the eastern part of South America, the ending visible generally in Western Asia, South America, the West Indies and North America except the Western part.

The second eclipse of the year will be visible at Janesville at the following time: Moon enters its shadow: 7 minutes after midnight; total eclipse begins: 7:15; total eclipse ends: 7:45; total eclipse at 2:09 and the moon leaves its shadow at 2:30 a. m.

The beginning of the 4th eclipse which is a partial eclipse of the moon will not be visible here. The moon can be seen leaving its shadow 7 minutes after midnight of the day on which it occurs and at 7:50 the moon will leave the penumbra.

Broadway Too Swift for Edith May

Straight from the scintillating spotlights of the Ziegfeld Follies, Edith May, the "moral-life" beauty, while electric lights proclaimed her wondrous charms at 42nd and Broadway, Edith May, Lucerne, is daughter of the Apollo theatre in Janesville. Miss Lucerneberg is no longer with the "Follies." It was all together too vaudeville stunt and tells of the horrors of Broadway and its artificial life and pitfalls.

So says a press agent, who was with the star, a long and varied aggregation of adjectives in describing the comeliness and charm of the national contest as the most beautiful girl shop in those United States, the press agent is ready to include her in the "moral-life" world-wide world. Miss May is also not a bit backward in admitting her reputation as a beauty.

Miss May is only playing vaudeville, it was explained, while enroute to her home in Green county to spend the Christmas holidays with her family in Janesville. Tuesday and Wednesday in the sweet glimmer of the stage, she wore when the prize winning photograph was taken, a gown which she wore when she was in her going from the little vaudeville stage in "Va Va Vo!"

It is a big time theatricals did not exactly suit Miss May. You see, she was rather unsophisticated in the ways of the bright lights of the Follies. The showgirls were so different and wore such outrageous gowns and talked such worldly affairs that Miss May decided the movies were much more suited for her.

She refused to be an end girl and wear such abbreviated gowns to be gazed at with wonder and awe by the street business men who had an option on the front seats all during the run. She was eight weeks with the Follies, during which time she learned much of the back stage life.

She now plans to try the movies, having a contract with the Kayser Film company. Several of the friends of her father, the Mayor, beauty were taken recently around her cottage home in which her talents were compared with the press agent.

The movies were so much nicer than being an end girl and then taking a leading part, it seems, that the little vaudeville shop in Monroe looked awfully good to Edith May. Especially when it came to wearing light-colored and soft bank gowns, and a buckle or two, with much other thin but girly attire of the big time chorus star.

Miss May plays in Madison this week, in Janesville the first three days next week, then goes to Beaver Dam before going to her home in Monroe.

HUNDREDS ENJOY PARTY AT ST. MARY'S

A joyous Christmas party was given yesterday afternoon at St. Mary's hall to the children of the St. Mary's parochial school by the Parent-Teachers' organization of that body. There were 250 children enrolled in the school.

Edgerton.—The City Merchants trade a satisfactory Christmas and notwithstanding the slump in prices and the unemployment of so many wage earners, all stores are to keep open evenings up to and including Friday evening. The community Christmas tree on the bank corner, which was placed in position a few days ago is a thing of beauty even with its dazzling array of many colored lights and with its large dazzling light representing the star of Bethlehem.

The W. R. C. has elected the following officers to serve for the ensuing year: president, Mrs. Carrier; first vice president, Mrs. Blake; second vice president, Mrs. Puerner; treasurer, Mabel Brown; chaplain, Mrs. Parrigo; conductor, Mrs. Ebbott; guard, Mrs. Spikes.

HOLIDAY BUSINESS AT POST OFFICE 20-PCT. GREATER

Business at the Janesville post office is increasing by leaps and bounds as each day brings Christmas closer. The post office experienced its biggest day of the season so far yesterday with 21,300 pieces of first class matter and 700 mail sacks containing Christmas packages. This is twenty per cent more than in 1919, according to Postmaster Cunningham.

He predicted that Thursday would be the largest day of the rush for the Christmas mailing. "People have that the mail will be delivered just as quickly as the train can take it to the city to which it is addressed," he explained. "In ordinary times this would be true with a few exceptions, but this can't be expected during the holiday rush with the post offices of the country swamped with mail."

Large numbers of post cards and Christmas greeting cards mailed apparently to arrive on Christmas day.

OSHKOSH RETAINS COMMISSION FORM

Oshkosh, Wis., Dec. 22.—This city will retain the commission form of government.

The vote on the commission form of government on Tuesday was heavy and in favor of the present form of government. The vote was 2,010 for the commission form and 3,409 against abandonment.

Mayor A. C. McHenry is now confronted with the rather unique situation of calling another election to vote on the question of whether he shall be recalled from office. A petition containing a sufficient number of names to order an election was filed some time ago and held valid by the judge of the county court.

A third of the total was registered by women. The result was known within half an hour after the polls closed. Only one ward out of sixteen gave a majority for returning to the old aldermanic form of government.

CHRISTMAS PARTY IN JOINT SCHOOLS

There will be a Christmas program and box social in the new consolidated school district north of Janesville in the building of the Advance creamery company tonight. Misses Doris McCall and Evelyn Nemett, teachers in the school for the joint districts will be in charge.

OFFICIALS ARE HELD BLAMELESS IN ASSAULT CASE

Further investigation of the case against Mrs. Inez Dicks shows that there was no cause for not arresting the defendant on a charge of assault and battery made by Mrs. Marie Hanson.

It is also brought out that District Attorney S. C. Dunwiddie is under no obligation to prosecute assault and battery cases. Except in rare instances it is held that it is a private matter unless damage has been caused to the community.

The district attorney here refused to comment on the case today.

From other sources it was learned that at the time the case was pending Mrs. Dicks was ill and had been advised against the nervous strain of appearing in court to answer the charge.

The trouble between the two women, it is said, arose over a household squabble. The two women had apartments in the same house and the alleged assault was over trouble in using a telephone. Members of the Dicks family declare that they understood the case had been dismissed in the municipal court.

Sheriff Fred Deley denied this morning he showed any lax action in making the arrest. "I served the warrant within 18 hours and when the defendant was in court my responsibility was ended. I am not prosecuting cases, nor was it any of my business what happened after she was arraigned," commented the sheriff.

We got our breakfast and sat down to watch them. All day long the hammering and banging went on, the white crew doing the work while the black divers were despatched to the other side of the lagoon to what appeared to Drake like a promising place and there turned to. The effort was apparently unavailing, as presently they returned to another locality nearer the entrance. Watching the operations aboard the Madcap I discovered that Drake's bullet-proof vest was not to prove efficient even against my new model Winchester. Being constructed of successive layers of corrugated iron and oakum. Two of these shields seemed to be ridiculously small, being scarcely more than large enough to shelter a single man. I had half a mind to hamper their proceedings by a little target practice, but it seemed scarcely worth while, especially as their methods appeared to be rather primitive. For the thing I was rather relieved as I did not believe that Drake would attempt to molest me as long as he was in the water. His plans unthwarted, the darkness finally hid them from view. I thought the hammering went on for a couple of hours longer. The mid-watch was made and as I sat there rather drowsily looking out across the water I heard a peculiar splash of oars. The moon had set and there was a thin haze which obscured the stars so that the night was dark, but there is always a certain gleam upon the water, especially when it is absolutely still, and presently I was able to make out two dark blotches creeping in from the gurgling and splashing of the divers. They could be nothing else but the Madcap's boats and in fact by listening intently I could catch the gurgle and splash of the oars. Apparently they had some heavy object or objects in tow and I thought at first it must be the bullet-proof vest, which I had seen on the raft made from spare spars and which they intended to move over the bed, and I was rather admiring Drake's cleverness, as even the native divers could have worked under such protection, when suddenly I discovered at a considerable distance beyond the boats a huge and blacker mass, and at the same instant the masts of the schooner shaped themselves against the opaque sky.

Now what was the meaning of this? Apparently the Madcap was towing in to the beach. The tide was at the least of the ebb but even so, the boats could not have been towed in close enough for the divers to work under her lee. Besides, Drake would never have risked getting aground if he had not known at what moment he might have to slip his cable and run to sea. Another puzzling feature was that with the Madcap out on the beach, the divers were not working. Anybody moving about her decks would be dangerously exposed to the natives and apparently slipped and fell. She had apparently slipped and fell. I was trying to make up my mind whether or not to try to go to the other anchor. The boats which returned alongside, one presently creeping out astern, and the other in order to prevent her swinging.

Well, here seemed to be a perplexing business and I would not have been patient for the daylight to show what it might be all about. I did not rouse Enid but lay in the mouth of the cave, drowsily, and presently I had not the slightest fear of attack. Drake had something better in his

FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

Around the house and past the kitchen Billy tore, with his horns entangled in the clothes line, scattering chickens right and left and followed by all the dogs, yelping and barking and thinking it the greatest fun they had had in a long time. Around to the front of the house went the queer procession and straight through Mrs. Sanders' pet geraniums to the kitchen door where Billy was just opening the door to scrub off her porch when she saw her clothes making such a queer trip. Of course she ran out, but just as she was about to reach the line a flapping sheet whipped around her foot and gave her a jerk that sent her rolling over in the grass, while the rest of the clothing of clothes swept on over her. Some of the wet garments dragging right across her face, she did not get a bit and even had to laugh at what a ridiculous figure she must have cut if anybody had been looking, but nevertheless she took after Billy and her clothes again. Billy by this time had made a circle which wiped out a paddy bed and now, frantic to get away from this state of affairs, and from his tormentor, the crowd, he made a dash for the open front door. The line of clothes caught on the foot of the door, but Billy went on just as the understudy tore and let him kick himself free. Moreover, as it passed on over his back it caught him by the hair, and for the second time that morning swept him, from Billy's back. This time he was in a worse fix than before, for the clothes were springing back and rolled him up in a tight web and thumped him back on the steps.

Why That Lame Back?

That morning lameness—those sharp pains when bending or lifting, making work a burden and rest impossible. Don't be handicapped by a bad back—look to your kidneys. You will make no mistake by following this Janesville resident's example.

Mrs. G. W. Way, 355 Western Ave., says: "It hasn't been so long since I used a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. They rid me of an attack of kidney trouble that had been annoying me for a year and a half. During that time I had severe spells of lameness and an irregularity of the kidneys. I knew something would have to be done to relieve this disorder and I was led to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I sent to Warner's Drug Store and got a box. I soon got relief and I have never had a return of the trouble. I willingly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

was so confused that he did not see exactly where he was going and he did not know the center table quite did not do the least bit of work. He ran against one leg of it, and over the table went with a crash, throwing a big lamp over and smashing it on the sofa, drenching it with oil and breaking a lot of choice china bric-a-brac that Mrs. Sanders had collected.

He hurriedly fled, and he was fairly hurled right after him. The kitchen door was closed, but Billy gave a jump through it, and there he made more trouble, for on a low, wide shelf, just outside the kitchen window, Mrs. Sanders had just placed a box of choice china bric-a-brac that Mrs. Sanders had collected.

No Comparison. They were standing on the deck of the cruiser, looking to the spreading East, where a wonderful sun had painted the giant canvas a rich crimson. Fleecy clouds drifting into the background set off the majesty of the sea until it stirred the very soul of the artist.

STRIKING MINERS TENTING IN VIRGINIA

Canvas Colony Life Ceases to be Novel for Its Inhabitants.

(By Associated Press.)
Williamson, W. Va.,—Life in a striking miners' tent colony, along the Tug river, has long ceased to be a novelty to the men, women and children who make up the colonists, but to the casual visitor it presents many interesting phases.

When the miners in the Mingo county field strike last July to enforce their demand for recognition of the union, many of them left the coal company houses they occupied, in some instances substantial brick cottages with electric lights, and went to live in tents provided by the union. There the most of them have remained, with their wives and families.

Colony Has Its President.
A typical tent colony is that known as Lick Creek, nestled in the valleys between Tug river and the mountains. There are 21 tents sheltering approximately 100 persons.

Martin Justice, a striking miner, presides over its destinies as "president," having been elected to that office by the colonists after he had been selected by the union to supervise the distribution of strike benefits and supplies. With him are some 50 men and women and about as many children.

The striking miners bused themselves during the summer months with their gardens which each planted as soon as the tents were pitched, but now that winter has come they are seeking such work as they can find, other than work in the non-union mines.

Women Keep Chickens.

The women occupy their time with their household duties, and with looking after the children and chickens. The colonists have nothing to do but play, as no provision for schools has been made for them. The chickens, of which there seem to be considerable numbers, have the run of the camp, and have proved of value in providing eggs and the usual Sunday dinner.

With the help of the tents will be well fixed for the winter," said "President" Martin, a native of Mingo county. "It's true the camp is not as large as when we first came here. Perhaps a hundred folks have moved away, the men to work in unionized fields and taking their families with them. But we have had only two men go into non-union mines. We'll stick."

Women Interested in Politics.

Some of the women in camp took a lively interest in the late election.

Mr. Martin confessed, and a few of them voted. They were standing firmly by their husbands in the industrial fight, he said, and the women in whom the correspondent talked confirmed his statement.

Miners and their families in the eight tent colonies in the district received support from the United Mine Workers. Each man is allowed $5 a week, each woman $2 and each child $1. The relief comes in the form of checks made out to the head of each family, and is to be spent where he chooses for food.

Clothing also is supplied as is fuel.

"We have had surprising little sickness in the colony," said Mr. Martin.

HOW TO CURE YOURSELF OF THE TOBACCO HABIT

London, (Encs.) Times: There was an appeal in our Personal Column yesterday which must have touched many fellow smokers.

"I want," it ran, "wishing to give up smoking altogether, finds it difficult. Any helpful experience would be appreciated."

It is easy to picture some of the answers he will receive.

"Smoke an honest pipe," one will write—a robust, unimagined fellow, built as we fancy him, who happens himself to dislike cigarettes.

Another will tell him that only an effort of will is necessary; that, though he may start for a while in the fires of abstinence, after a week or two his agony will pass once and for all.

A third will cheer him with the story of Mr. Clemenceau, who, for a fortnight kept a box of the most fragrant cigars open on his desk, and, having refrained for long, never failed to smoke again.

Many have tried at some time or another to give up the habit of which cigarette-smoking is the most insidious form, and know that it is easier said than done.

Every-day life puts so many difficulties in the reformer's path that it is no wonder that the mind robbed of its usual stimulus can become a horrid blank.

A man has been known, time after time to leave his pipe, and then, after a few days at home, and then resolutely set forth to his office.

Every time he had sent out a messenger to buy a cherry-stemmed pipe, lest he should sit staring vacantly at his work.

There is the question of temper. If the least thing goes against him, the abstainer becomes a ravening beast. Let his children so much as beat a drum, or slide, or squeak, down the banister, and he longs to smother them soundly.

Again, it is painfully unassociated not to smoke. We may ask a friend to come and smoke a pipe with us, and tobacco will supply the place of talk; but we cannot both sit and do nothing. More embarrassment may be conquered when desire has lost its power. Some have broken themselves of smoking by the constant nibbling of sweetstuff carried in their pockets.

There is also chewing—no, not an engaging substitute, but one that seems to soothe in moments of nervous tension.

The professional football player prances, chapping, on to the field before a match. His going forth, whose more cold-blooded game induces a peculiar craving for smoke, has initiated him; as he studies a critical play, you may see his jaws stealthily working. As to our advertiser, we can only trust that among the multitude of his counsellors there may be wisdom. We wish him well in his struggle, and if he finds the secret, we hope he will publish it to the world.

NOBODY CARES! CHRISTMAS FOR THE PROFITEER IS NOT SO MERRY THIS YEAR

Women Will Form Force of Policewomen to Aid Detroit

(Special to this Gazette.)

Detroit, Mich.—Miss Virginia Mae Murray, secretary of the Travelers Aid Society in New York city, the energetic and resourceful foe of vicious and irresponsible persons who seek to prey upon unprotected travelers going to that city, will under take the work of organizing and training a force of policewomen here, it has been announced.

New York is not to lose Miss Murray, however. She will divide her time between this city and New York, spending three weeks out of every month here until the force is in good working order.

"There will be every opportunity in Detroit to see what a fine force of policewomen can do," said Miss Murray when interviewed. "Politics does not enter into the police situation in that city. The project of organizing a women's division of the police force originated with Dr. James W. Inghes, the police commissioner, who is a firm believer in preventive rather than punitive work among the young. Like most men who have studied the situation, he feels that preventive work among girls can best be done by women."

"His enthusiasm is shared by the citizens' committee of Detroit and the women's protective committee, which backs up the work of the Girls' Protective League. For some time Commissioner Inghes has been convinced that constructive work among women and girls would be of benefit to the city and has been looking out for some one who would take permanent charge. In Washington we have already seen what a good force of women police can do. Mrs. Mina Van Winkle is at the head of an excellent force of policewomen in that city, the force having been organized under that splendid Washington police commissioner, Major Pullman, who died a year ago."

"The work of the policewomen is somewhat akin to that of the Travelers Aid society in that the work of the travelers' aid is preventive, affords protection for girls, although the travelers' aid had a broader scope than this. But the value of preventive work has been experience of the travelers' aid. We have come to see clearly how necessary this work is in all cities."

When asked if she thought that conditions among girls and women in Detroit were particularly bad at present, Miss Murray said no, that the desire to organize a women's police force was not a sign that conditions were worse, but that the authorities were more enlightened.

"There will be every opportunity in Detroit to see what a fine force of policewomen can do," said Miss Murray when interviewed. "Politics does not enter into the police situation in that city. The project of organizing a women's division of the police force originated with Dr. James W. Inghes, the police commissioner, who is a firm believer in preventive rather than punitive work among the young. Like most men who have studied the situation, he feels that preventive work among girls can best be done by women."

"His enthusiasm is shared by the citizens' committee of Detroit and the women's protective committee, which backs up the work of the Girls' Protective League. For some time Commissioner Inghes has been convinced that constructive work among women and girls would be of benefit to the city and has been looking out for some one who would take permanent charge. ATHLETIC CLUB TO BE FORMED IN JANESVILLE

Formation of the Janesville Athletic association to be incorporated eventually under the laws of Wisconsin has been started. Lease has been taken of the top floor of the building at 21 South Main street, for the new quarters.

Those who will appear upon the incorporation papers are C. V. Biglow, Max Zimmerman, and A. A. Cunningham. Several men prominent in the affairs of the city have agreed to give the plan their support. Papers are now being drawn up by the firm of R. G. and R. S. Cunningham, lawyers.

To Boost Boxing.
The new club expects to procure a license under the state boxing law and it may stage boxing bouts of the first caliber. At present it will exist in the nature of a semi-social organization during the preliminary stages of building, but later will branch out as a full-fledged athletic association similar to those in larger cities.

Steps are being taken in forming the club now so that when the summer plant gets under full swing during the first part of the year, details will be arranged for increasing the membership. Interest appears high among the sporting element of the city with expectations that the club will bring the punks will assure success.

Want Real Facilities.
While it is realized by those back of the idea that the facilities here for holding athletic events are limited, the belief is strong that the city will grow and that quicker action on building an auditorium or large enough building for indoor events can be procured if there is a live, organized bunch of young men ready to fight for it.

Every effort is to be made, it is stated, to put forth athletics upon a high standard.

EDLER HERE; SAYS PURPLE IS COMING

Ray Edler, former Lakota Cardinal player, and now coach of basketball at Northwestern University, was in Janesville yesterday. He reported that his team has started out fairly well this early in the season. It is composed of a considerable amount of green material that will require lots of time to round into shape. His hopes are high, however.

GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAM HAD PROFITABLE TRIP

Philadelphia, Dec. 22.—Members of the Philadelphia hockey team just returned from a tour of England, said they had learned much about hockey on the trip they had taken. Miss Elizabeth Cheston, captain, "and couldn't have been treated nicer by the English. We learned a lot about hockey that we never knew before and sympathy for our victors that it seemed almost as if they had won the ones who had lost and we had won."

Although the team won only one of the ten games played, Miss Cheston said the trip "unquestionably was a success."

WOMEN IN FOOTBALL! COMING SAYS COACH

Boston.—Varsity football played by women was suggested as likely in a few years by Major Frank W. Taylor, coach of the Boston college team, at a dinner of the Suburban High School league Saturday night. "Women have shown they could fight," he said, "and I should not be surprised if in five years there was agitation for varsity football among the women's colleges."

BRINGING UP FATHER

MENDY IN DRAW WITH O. WALLACE

Milwaukee, Dec. 22.—Johnny Mendelsohn got another surprise when he could do no more than draw with Otto Wallace at the Cream City Athletic club here Tuesday night. However, John had a slight shade, despite the fact that Otto landed some mighty smashes to the stomach.

Mendelsohn was not asleep. He permitted close in boxing but came back with stiff upper cuts to the chin. Every round was a mill of fists.

In the other bouts, Walter Gray-Gay outpointed Duran McFarlane in eight rounds; Tony Lukes stopped George Gray in three rounds; Battling Ben stopped John Selan in three rounds.

MILWAUKEE PROVIDES SPORTS FOR CHILDREN

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 22.—With the onset of the social centers here January 4, a four months' athletic carnival will be inaugurated with nine sports planned: golf and boys' basketball, checkers, billiards, snowball bombardment, bowling conducted on a league basis indoors, while hockey and skating meets are scheduled in the city parks.

"The Milwaukee Amateur Athletic federation, composed of district athletic associations, and sponsored by the extension department of the school board is arranging the schedule championship awards of pennants, medals and individual medals, and formulating the leagues."

O'BRIEN TO ASSIST PROSECUTION OF SOX

Chicago, Dec. 22.—James C. "Ropes" O'Brien, former assistant state attorney, will be engaged to assist in the prosecution of the White Sox players and gamblers who threw the 1919 world's series, now under indictment by the Cook county grand jury, according to an announcement by President Johnson said he expects early hearings.

DEMPSEY'S CHALLENGE IS LAUGHED DOWN!

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 22.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, threw out a challenge Tuesday which was not accepted.

The champion was the guest at a local Rotary club's luncheon. He declared he was not a speaker, but reminded him of the story of the man who went to a dance and could not sing or dance but was willing to fight.

"To be sociable I will fight any one in the room," Dempsey said amid laughter.

Sport Essential in Dull Periods

The country is now passing through a period of business depression. Many industries are operating with reduced forces and only part time. The outlook for the future is gradually brightening but none but the most optimistic believes that conditions will become normal for several months at least.

To times like these, some industries feel that it is advisable to pare their appropriations for recreational activities to the very bone. Needless to say, this is a wrong attitude to take. Athletics are just as important now as they ever were. They provide a much-needed means of taking the employee's mind from the gloomy aspects of life and of keeping his interests in his work.

It is interesting because he wants to hold his job but interested because he likes the work.—Industrial Athletics.

A Letter from Home

Dear Mother:—
Nothing could have pleased me more than your Christmas gift, a year's subscription to the Gazette. It's like a great big letter from home every day bringing to me the news of all the folks in whom I'm interested. It brings the home town and its affairs close to me each evening.

Believe me, it was the best Christmas gift ever.
Love from,
Joe.

Ice Skating Being Fostered By Many Live Municipalities

By PETER P. CAINEY,
Editor National Sports Syndicate.
Two pieces of advice physicians give are:

Get outdoors.
Take plenty of exercise.

Sensible people heed this advice. They go out for a run, play golf or tennis in the summer season, and they are getting plenty of exercise and getting it outdoors. There are some people, however, who do not heed this advice. They are the winter skaters. There is no more exhilarating sport nor better form of exercise than ice skating, especially when it is done in the clean, crisp air.

Physicians know this and advise this form of exercise. There are 25 ice skating rinks for every one there was five years ago. This army of ice skaters is growing every year.

Ice skating is making wonderful headway because municipalities are interested in its promotion. Playgrounds and recreation centers have been erected in hundreds of American cities during the past 10 years.

and until two years ago most of them were unused in the cold season. It is different now. These playgrounds and recreation centers, as well as cantilets, etc., are being utilized as skating rinks, and are even more active in the winter than in summer.

Roslin, Mass., has 13 municipal rinks when the weather is cold enough, and some of these rinks are large enough to accommodate thousands of skaters. These are not the small skating places in Boston, but the 13 that the city takes charge of. Springfield, Mass., has 26 municipal skating rinks under the direction of the school board and the park commission. Pittsburgh, Pa., utilizes its playgrounds as skating centers, as Columbus, Cleveland and Cincinnati, O., Baltimore, Md., Lakewood, N. J., Minneapolis, Minn., Milwaukee, Wis., Salt Lake City, Utah, Chicago, Ill., and these places in New York state: Watford, Albany, Cohoes, Troy, Rochester, Buffalo, Brooklyn, Green Island, Watervliet, Brooklyn and Islip.

Chicago Has 400 Rinks.
Chicago has the greatest number of free skating rinks. The city has added 70 playgrounds and 329 vacant lots—399 skating places. It is safe to say that in and around Chicago there are 600 open air skating rinks.

Quite naturally Chicago develops more skaters than any other city. The city gives trophies for competitions in each of these rinks, encourages dual club meets, and winds up with a large skating party for the children of the city.

To show the interest that some cities take in ice skating for the younger folk we desire to state that there will be a skating carnival between the 50 best skaters of the New York and Chicago schools. This winter, New York accepted the challenge issued by Chicago. Mayor Thompson of Chicago, through the school board, has charged the clubs organized in every school, and through elimination contests the best skaters will be chosen.

Skating was held back for years through the scarcity of indoor rinks, but with municipal rinks outdoors the sport can be developed to its fullest extent, and at the same time provide healthful recreation for many. It is the greatest of outdoor winter sports.

LYNCH WILL TEST HERMAN'S METTLE

New York, Dec. 22.—Whether the accusation that he has been dodging the best fighters for the past two years so that he could retain the title of batman-weight champion has tonight when Pete Herman defends his crown in a 15 round battle with Joe Lynch at Madison Square Garden. Herman grabbed the laurels at Baltimore in 1917 on points from Ed Williams. Herman has claimed that he could not make the weight of the batman.

SCHOOL ATHLETICS BOOM IN MICHIGAN

In Michigan the 5 per cent tax on boxing is devoted to a fund for the school children of the state. It is spent for the purpose of promoting athletics in the schools, and according to Tom Biggar, chairman of the commission, this plan of distribution has done great work in the physical development of youth. In the last year an amount estimated at $30,000 was turned over for this purpose, this money representing the 5 per cent tax.

SOX NOT FOR SALE DECLARES COMISKEY

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Rumors recently circulated to the effect that President Charles A. Comiskey of the Chicago American league baseball club planned to sell his interests to a Tulsa, Okla., man, caused Mr. Comiskey to issue a statement Tuesday night denying that he had any such plan.

Frame-Ups Known There

The principal event of this occasion was a fight between an Englishman and a Turkish heavyweight. It was announced the fight would go 15 rounds. After a few rounds the referee made a speech to the fighters from the ring in which he said:

"I have seen many fights, but I have never seen one like this. Each man is presented with a big bunch of roses."

Later one of the fighters brought action against the boxing association for damages and reimbursement. His counsel, in a brief in which he explained at length the principles of prize-fighting, declared these men were both "defensive" and not offensive fighters, that each had awaited for the other to take the offensive and neither having done so there wasn't much of a fight.
